NEWS FROM MR DAVE

WHAT WENT WELL?

Have you ever noticed that humans tend to pay more attention to negative rather than positive experiences? We do this because our basic survival instincts want us to take notice of and remember things that may cause us harm. Although this bodily function is very helpful, it can also be very stressful if we don't actively seek out the good things that happen around us every day, the things we should be grateful for.

My challenge to you is:

Whenever you catch yourself thinking or talking to yourself in your head, ask What Went Well? Also when you see your children or those in your care straight after school, ask them, What Went Well?
